

Version: 1

Date: 18 December 2025

These terms govern the download, use, and reproduction of 3D-printable files (STL and related formats) made available by Galileo Engineering S.r.l., owner of the Policar® brand (hereinafter “Galileo Engineering”). By downloading, accessing, or using these files, the user confirms that they have read, understood, and accepted the present License, Disclaimer, and Terms of Use in full.

1. Nature of the License

The files are licensed, not sold. Galileo Engineering grants a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable, revocable license for personal, non-commercial hobby use only. No ownership rights are transferred.

2. Dual-License Model (Commercial Use)

Any commercial use, modification, redistribution, or derivative work requires prior written authorization and a separate commercial license. Commercial licensing inquiries must be addressed to sales@galileo.engineering.

3. Intellectual Property Rights

All designs, files, trademarks, logos, and brand identifiers, including Policar®, remain the exclusive property of Galileo Engineering S.r.l. No rights are waived.

4. “AS IS” Provision – No Warranty

The files are provided AS IS, without any express or implied warranties, including fitness for purpose or accuracy.

5. Additive Manufacturing Limitations

Printed parts may exhibit dimensional deviations or imperfections depending on materials and print parameters.

6. Intended Use & Safety Warning

Intended for adult hobbyist use only. 3D printing may involve mechanical, thermal, or electrical hazards.

7. Limitation of Liability

Galileo Engineering S.r.l. shall not be liable for damages or injuries arising from use or misuse of the files.

8. No Certification or Compliance Guarantee

Printed parts are not certified and not intended for safety-critical applications.

9. Termination

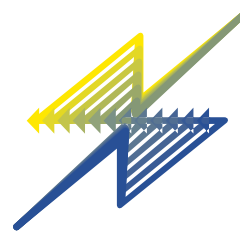

This license terminates automatically upon violation of these terms.

10. Governing Law & Jurisdiction

These terms are governed by Italian law and applicable European Union law.
